

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN The Advertiser BUSINESS JOURNAL

Incorporating Business Daily

DEVELOPING SENSES: Three-year-old Jude Hepworth-Smith, left, with Kid Sense founder Joanna Buttfield, Jude's mum Bess Hepworth and Kid Sense managing director Conor McKenna. Picture: KERYN STEVENS/AAP

Perfect Sense

GIVING a helping hand to more children like Jude Hepworth-Smith, 3, is the grand ambition of Unley-based Kid Sense Child Development. The paediatric occupational therapy and speech pathology service and 2017 Telstra Business Award winner intends to open 30 centres nationally by 2025, employing 380 staff. It will start by raising more than $3 million for six new centres in Adelaide. PAGE 27

Techies' star challenge

A WORLD of possibility awaits four South Australian start-ups that have made the final cut for the inaugural Asia Pacific Tech-stars program. It is to be conducted in Adelaide over the next 13 weeks and is focused on defence and security technology. The SA companies included in the top 10 will be joined by four international start-ups and two from interstate. PAGE 25

Supa deal in the 'burbs

A MULTI-million dollar investment by the largest supplier of military vehicles to the Australian Defence Force, is set to generate huge job growth in a small, industrial pocket of Adelaide's eastern suburbs. Magill's Supashock has joined forces with defence giant Rheinmetall, whose global head of vehicle systems, Ben Hudson, says the advanced manufacturer can become a $100 million business. PAGE 28

Medical high expected

RECORD interest is anticipated around the sale, by auction, of a fully-leased site on the eastern fringe of the Adelaide CBD. The Parkside Medical Precinct goes under the gavel next month. PAGE 29